

Dear Colleague,

It is Fall once again and time is approaching for the Seventh Annual Ohio Inorganic Meeting. This year's event will be at Ohio University in Athens, OH. We have decided to have the meeting on November 17 and 18 in the newly built Walter Hall. This weekend was chosen to avoid other local events.

One major addition from years' past is the Ohio Inorganic Meeting website (<http://www.case.edu/artsci/chem/faculty/protasiewicz/group/OhioInorgChemistry/OhioInorganic.html>), designed by Professor John Protasiewicz, which contains a nearly comprehensive list of Inorganic chemists in Ohio as well as the recent history of the meeting.

Please send to me (rack@helios.phy.ohiou.edu) or Professor Michael Jensen (jensenm@ohio.edu) the numbers of students attending the meeting (indicate whether graduate, undergraduate or postdoctoral), the number of students giving oral presentation and the number of students giving poster presentations. I ask that you send this information by September 30.

Later mailings to interested parties will include travel directions, housing information and a call for abstracts and titles.

Please feel free to forward this to colleagues we have inadvertently missed or to interested parties in neighboring states.

We look forward to seeing you this Fall.
