

Summer 2012

May 14-June 1

PHILOSOPHY 201 - INTRODUCTION TO LOGIC

Colin McLarty Clark Hall 9:30-12 noon

This course will investigate the nature of deductive reasoning in general. The specific aim is to analyze and to evaluate arguments and proofs by representing them in a formal symbolic system. Attention will also be paid to the scope and limits of logic. The course covers propositional and predicate logic.

