DEAR FRIENDS,

Summer is finally on its way and we are pleased to bring you an exciting line up of courses and lectures to fulfill your love of learning as the weather warms up and the sun shines.

This July marks the 10 year anniversary of Siegal Lifelong Learning becoming a part of Case Western Reserve University. We are planning a celebration to acknowledge all of those who helped us reach this milestone, including you, our students!

Mark your calendars to join us on Wednesday, September 14 at 7 p.m. at the Tinkham Veale University Center on campus at CWRU. We will celebrate with a showcase of what we do best... bringing you high quality learning opportunities. More information will be available soon.

We'd like to offer a special thank you to the Siegal Lifelong Learning staff, a hard-working group whose dedication and support make all of our programming possible. The staff listed on the left-hand side of this page ensure that we have a full array of personal enrichment courses and lectures year-round, a selection of national and international travel opportunities, as well as career-enhancing boot camps, certificate, and degree programs in the continuing professional studies arena.

We hope you'll plan to join us in September to celebrate Siegal. In the meantime, please enjoy the current programs and travel opportunities. As always, our staff is here to help should you have any questions.

Sincerely,

REMOTE COURSE

DISCOVERING RUSSIAN OPERA: HUMANISM IN THE FACE OF TYRANNY

Larry Josefovitz, Cantor, Instructor of Lifelong Learning

Wednesdays, June 8–29
1:30–3 p.m. ET

The arts can be a powerful forum for confronting moral issues. In the 19th century, Russian composers, working within a repressive regime, incorporated Russian folk material and liturgical chant to create a colorful repertoire of Eastern European opera. Two of the greatest stars of the Bolshoi Opera, between the 1930's and the postwar period, were Ukrainian artists: Jewish bass Mark Reizen, and tenor, Ivan Kozlovksy, who was prevented from foreign tours by his admirer, Stalin. We will examine their historic film performances in Mussorgsky's Boris Godunov, a study in guilt, along with great opera by Tchaikovsky, and others.

THE RESURRECTION: IS IT FACT OR FICTION?

Todd Rosenberg, Attorney, Instructor of Lifelong Learning

Wednesdays, June 1–22
7–8:30 p.m. ET

There is a famous saying that when the Messiah comes, he will be asked, 'Is this your first appearance or your second?'. In this class, we will explore Jewish and Christian perspectives on this question. We will study a description of the Gospel accounts, the similarities and differences between the Jewish views of resurrection and the accounts of Jesus, inconsistencies in the New Testament accounts themselves, and Jewish responses to the claims of Christian apologists.

CHILDHOOD IN ISRAEL: WELL-BEING AND VULNERABILITY

Hanita Koshier, Director Haruv USA; Faculty member, School of Social Work and Social Welfare, the Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Thursday, June 9
7–8:30 p.m. ET

In honor of International Children's Day, join Dr. Hanita Koshier for a discussion of childhood in Israel. How has the perception of children, and the meaning of childhood, changed throughout human history? What are the challenges facing children in Israel today, and how do these differ from other countries? Drawing on her experiences as a social worker, researcher, and director of Haruv USA, an international training center on child maltreatment, Dr. Koshier will explore the ways in which the social, religious and cultural contexts of Israeli society influence children's well-being, the response to child maltreatment, and children's experiences during the COVID-19 pandemic.

REMOTE LECTURE

REVISITING A FORGOTTEN CENTER: CARIBBEAN JEWRY IN A GLOBAL PERSPECTIVE

Jessica Roitman, Professor of Jewish Studies, Faculty of Religion and Theology, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam

Wednesday, June 15
noon–1:30 p.m. ET

To most of us, the Caribbean is a place for vacations, not an active hub of Jewish life. But from the seventeenth through the mid-nineteenth centuries, this region was the center, economically and culturally, of American Jewry. Join us to learn the fascinating history of Jews in the Caribbean, as we explore the largely forgotten Dutch empire and the global connections of this influential Jewish community.

REMOTE LECTURE

ISRAELI GRAFFITI ART: SECRETS FROM BEHIND THE SCENES

Elinoy Kisslove, Artist, Activist, and Tour Guide

Sunday, July 31
1–2:30 p.m. ET

This summer Israeli graffiti artist Dede will be creating an installation of his work in Cleveland. How did Israeli street art become such a cultural force? Join Elinoy Kisslove, Tel Aviv-based graffiti artist and activist, for an illustrated talk about the vibrant street art scene in Tel Aviv. We'll explore how Tel Aviv's graffiti art reflects different aspects of Israeli culture and society, what leads the artists to take great risks in order to express themselves on public walls, and the many and varied reactions to their work.

Free and Open to the Community

This lecture is offered in partnership with the Cleveland Israel Arts Connection of the Jewish Federation of Cleveland.

REMOTE LECTURE

JEWIS AND WHITENESS

Marc Dollinger, Richard and Rhoda Goldman Chair in Jewish Studies and Social Responsibility, San Francisco State University

Wednesday, August 10
7–8:30 p.m. ET

Are American Jews white? The question, answered differently by different generations of American Jews, gets at the heart of American Jewish identity. Have Jews remained separate and distinct from the rest of middle-class America or have they assimilated so much that they have become white? Come explore the contentious history and sociology of Jews and racial definition. We'll journey back to the 1960s and discover some (surprising) insights into the debate over Jewish whiteness.

REMOTE COURSE

DIMENSIONS OF TESHUVAH

Bill Plevan, Rabbi, Instructor, Gratz College

Tuesdays, August 23–September 13
7–8:30 p.m. ET

Jews prepare for their New Year by engaging in teshuvah, a word that is usually translated as "repentance" and literally means "return." But the ideal of teshuvah also contains possibilities beyond individual penitence. Jewish thinkers have interpreted this concept to speak of many kinds of turnings and returnings – to tradition, to home, or to a whole self. In this class, we will read a variety of modern Jewish thinkers who bring teshuvah beyond the walls of the synagogue to speak to the spiritual and ethical challenges of modern life.

REMOTE COURSE

JANE AUSTEN AND PHILOSOPHY

Sarah Rosenson, Instructor of Lifelong Learning

Wednesdays, June 1–15
1:30–3 p.m. ET

In this three-part interactive online discussion, the first session will focus on Pride and Prejudice, the second on Sense and Sensibility, and the third on Persuasion. What are some of the different types of injustice philosophers identify, particularly those experienced by women? What would Aristotle say is the correct amount of various virtues, including the virtues of sense and sensibility? Is persuadability a virtue or a vice, and how does this question relate to John Stuart Mill's thought on freedom of expression?

Participants will receive a resource booklet of texts. Alternatively, film adaptations are all available on various streaming sites including the BBC production of Pride and Prejudice starring Colin Firth and Jennifer Ehle; Emma Thompson's film Sense and Sensibility; and the BBC film Persuasion, starring Amanda Root and Ciaran Hinds.

IN PRAISE OF SHAKESPEARE'S FOOLS

Barbara Burgess-Van Aken, SAGES Fellow,
Department of English, CWRU

Tuesdays, June 7–28
noon–1:30 p.m. ET

The Renaissance concept of folly and foolery has philosophical and ironic resonance in Shakespeare's plays, regardless of their genre. Although we will touch upon Shakespeare's characterization of fools in a broad range of his plays, we will discuss four works in-depth: Henry IV – Part 1, A Midsummer Night's Dream, All's Well That Ends Well, and King Lear.

IN-PERSON LECTURE

WONDERLANDS AND LOOKING-GLASSES: EXPLORING THE MIND OF BOOK ILLUSTRATORS

Arnold Hirshon, Vice Provost and Lindseth Family
University Librarian, CWRU (retired)

Friday, June 10
noon–1:30 p.m. ET

Illustration is the art of translating text into visual images. When illustrating a book, the illustrator faces numerous choices, and when illustrating a classic text there is an additional challenge: how to bring something new of interest to the reader. Lewis Carroll's two Alice books – Alice's Adventures in Wonderland and Through the Looking-Glass – are the most illustrated works of literature in the world, with over 1,800 illustrators internationally having had a hand in illustrating one or both books. Thus, Alice provides a perfect opportunity to explore what goes on in the mind of illustrators as they consider the potential audience, the possible artistic choices, and the textual influences. This fast-moving trip down the artistic rabbit hole will be a delight to the eye, and you will see all illustrated books in a fascinating new light.

Read: Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, Lewis Carroll;
Through the Looking-Glass, Lewis Carroll

IN-PERSON COURSE

EURIPIDES AND THE TROJAN WAR

Timothy Wutrich, Senior Instructor of Classics, CWRU

Tuesdays, July 5–26
10–11:30 a.m. ET

The mythology of the Trojan War provided a major inspiration for all of the Attic tragedians. Euripides, however, understood the Trojan War not only as a showcase of Olympian intervention and heroic prowess but as the opportunity to explore and reevaluate traditional views of gods and heroes in light of the intellectual and cultural revolution in the second half of the fifth century. This course will read some of Euripides's Trojan cycle plays and examine how Euripides envisioned the Trojan War and its aftermath.

Read: The Complete Greek Tragedies, 3rd Ed., Mark Griffith and Glenn W. Most (Iphigenia in Aulis, Rhesus, The Trojan Women, Hecuba, Electra, Orestes, Cyclops)

WILLIAM FAULKNER'S LIGHT IN AUGUST

Monica Miller, Assistant Professor,
 Middle Georgia State University

Mondays, July 25–August 29
10–11:30 a.m. ET

This course will examine and discuss William Faulkner's powerful 1932 novel, Light in August. Through the intertwined stories of Lena Grove, Reverend Gail Hightower, and Joe Christmas, Faulkner has written a brilliant novel that wrestles with questions of race, gender, memory, and how we live in the reverberations of history. In this novel, Faulkner writes, "memory believes before knowing remembers." We will spend this class analyzing, exploring, and trying to figure out what this means. This course is for all interested readers, whether you've read Faulkner myriad times or are brand new to his work.
