

CWRU Export Compliance Program

Federal export control laws restrict exports of certain items and technologies. This includes transmissions of certain information, materials, and equipment to foreign nationals, abroad or in the United States.

The CWRU Export Management Program provides centralized resources and oversight for all export control-related activities. CWRU faculty, administrators, employees, and students are responsible for being aware of, and complying with, these export control laws and CWRU's written export control instructions and procedures.

- Contact Environmental Health & Safety before shipping items abroad
- When travelling abroad with research data, take only the data you need for the trip
- As you submit sponsored project proposals, indicate export controlled activities when appropriate
- Pursue research agreements via the appropriate university offices
